EXCEPTIONAL DENTISTRY

In every occupation, there are those that stand out and rise above the rest. In dentistry, one name that continually stands out, year after year, is Dr. Michael K. Reece. The secrets to his success are the combination of a great team and a constant commitment to improvement.

For years, Dr. Michael Reece and his team have had unified goals - to be the best at what they do and to always strive for excellence. These ideas are put into practice daily.

Each morning, prior to seeing patients, the entire Reece team gathers to review the days' cases and discuss treatment approaches. The discussions are robust, the mood light but serious and everybody gives their input. By the time the first patient arrives, everyone on the team will have been briefed on each and every appointment for the day.

These meetings, fondly known to the team as 'huddles,' also dedicate time to discussing how to improve the overall patient experience. Patient comfort, communication, treatment, follow-up, convenience - all of these are considered and discussed. The best ideas are put into practice immediately. The Reece team is committed to constant improvement which, in turn, leads to happy, healthy patients with successful treatment outcomes.

Patients seeing Dr. Reece for the first time are in for an experience in superior service. Even before the first visit, patients are assigned a treatment coordinator. This coordinator becomes the single contact point for all questions from the first call to post-treatment follow-up. Their complete focus is on the patient's satisfaction and comfort.

Nothing is left to chance. Friendly reminders about appointments are sent by the patient's choice of text message, emails, phone calls, or even a combination of the three. All of the necessary forms are conveniently available on line at drreece.com.

Patients who go to Dr. Reece's office enjoy the easily accessible location and convenient parking. Upon entering the office, patients are enveloped by beautiful interior design that is warm and inviting.

The office manager, Kimm, greets patients by name with her welcoming voice and beautiful trademark smile. She has also perfected the timing of patients so that wait times are kept to an absolute minimum. Kimm's easy demeanor instantly engages patients and makes them feel welcome and at ease.

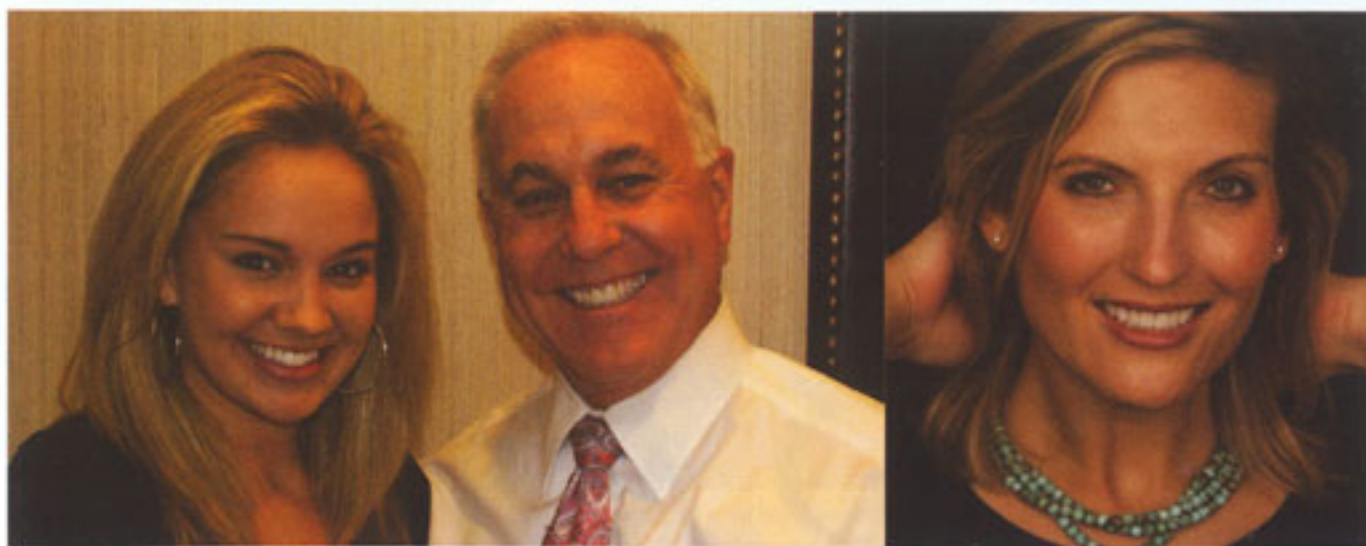

When a patient meets Dr. Reece for the first time, it becomes quickly apparent that he loves what he does and to an even greater degree, loves working with his patients. This shows in his smile and enthusiasm, and most of all, it shows in the exceptional quality of his dentistry.

For Dr. Reece, the source of his enthusiasm is patient health. His approach is to provide long-term oral and dental health to each of his patients. To achieve this, he takes into account each patient's health history. He listens, evaluates, and then recommends a course of action that will provide the best outcome for better overall health.

Dr. Reece sees each patient as unique and different. His patients' needs are very important to him. Listening to them helps him treat his patients in the best possible way. Each patients needs are unique and Dr. Reece can help them achieve a healthy bite; address a lifetime pattern of headaches; create dental implants to replace missing teeth; or solve problems common to regular dentures. For other patients, Dr. Reece gets the opportunity to design the smile of their dreams. continued on the next page

Dr. Michael Reece has helped create many famous smiles -- including those of Tiffany Thornton (star of The Disney Channel's hit show Sonny With a Chance, and KBTX's own Meredith Stancik.

Dr. Reece invests the time to listen to what his patients want and incorporate these wants with the best techniques and resources available.

His energy level is unmatched, as is his constant quest to keep abreast of the latest technology and techniques in dentistry. Dr. Reece's commitment to patients, and education combined with the latest techniques and research have earned him the respect and admiration of an ever-growing list of patients and colleagues.

One of the things few patients know however, is Dr. Reece is also widely recognized and respected outside of the Bryan-College Station area. The prestigious Las Vegas Institute (LVI) is considered the pinnacle of advanced dental training. For several years, Dr. Reece has been sought out to share his expertise. He teaches dentists from all across the U.S., who travel to LVI, how to perform advanced techniques. Dr. Reece feels this combination of teaching and attending advanced training himself, helps him provide the very best dentistry possible to patients in the Brazos Valley.

In addition to educating his colleagues, Dr. Reece has been refining his skills in several key areas. Complete oral and dental health, adult cosmetic braces (or Six Month Smiles), cosmetic dentistry, headache treatment (TMJ) through dentistry, and advance treatment for denture wearers (providing them with a more permanent 'locked in' solution to removable dentures).

When someone asks Dr. Reece about his success with patients, it is interesting that he doesn't mention himself. He gives all the credit to his wonderful, loyal team. Connie, Nanette, Kimm, and Kimberly complete a team that most dentists would call a "dream team." Experience, and the highest quality of care are their priorities along with their positive attitudes towards patient care.

Long ago, Dr. Reece made a commitment to ensure his team was as well-trained and patient-centered as he was. This commitment has had a great impact on building relationships with his patients. People like the stability of his team, and look forward to visits at his office -- likening it to visiting good friends.

The field of dentistry is constantly changing and Dr. Reece isn't only changing to stay abreast of those changes, but in many cases, he is leading the way. He is growing in his reputation as a gifted speaker at dental symposiums and meetings. He communicates well with patients and his peers through Facebook and his blog has given him an expanded readership that count on Dr. Reece to keep them informed and current on the subjects of dental and oral health. Many consider him an integral part of their health care team and consult with Dr. Reece regularly on how he can help guide their dental and oral health for optimum long-term function.

Many recent studies have linked dental health to overall heart, stress, muscular, and dietary health that the role of the dentist has expanded greatly. Dentists now identify and guide patients in many other areas previously not treated just two years ago.

This comprehensive approach to health through dentistry has allowed Dr. Reece's patients to experience a better quality of life under his care.

Dentistry requires ongoing training to stay on top. Dr. Reece devotes approximately half of each month to continuing education, lecturing, research, and teaching to keep his skills and knowledge optimum for his patients. Many dentists would call him a "dentist's dentist" in recognition of his drive and devotion to advancing dentistry.

The best part of Dr. Reece's practice is that he is right here in our community and available for all of us to access.

Indeed, it is a unique culture and a testament to how dedication to craft and attention to patients has built Michael K. Reece, DDS into the respected practice it has become. Give them a try and see if your experience surpasses your expectation.
